Historical Note:

From 1999 through 2006 Phil was a member, then chairman, of the Upper Missouri Lewis and Clark Bicentennial Commission (a regional group comprised of Cascade and Choteau Counties); board member of the Lewis and Clark Interpretive Association; board then a regular member of the Portage Route Chapter of the Lewis and Clark Trail Heritage Foundation, Inc. (LCTHF); co-chairman of the Lewis and Clark Honor Guard Signature Event Committee (participating in 25 of the 33 days of the Honor Guard's historical re-enactments during the signature event); a member of the Explore the Big Sky planning group (serving on the finance committee and the events committee).

Phil has been actively involved in Lewis and Clark since 1972 and a member of LCTHF since 1975. He also chaired/co-chaired the Great Falls annual four-day Lewis and Clark Festival, headed by the Lewis and Clark Interpretive Association, for four years, an event that started in 1989 and still continues today. Phil, a relative of Montana artist Bob Scriver, headed up two projects that commissioned Bob to create outdoor bronze statues of Lewis and Clark – Explorers at the Marias in Fort Benton, Montana and Explorers at the Portage in Great Falls, Montana. Both were large budget, multi-year projects.

In the late 1990s, Phil was actively involved in three of the four different Lewis and Clark organizations in Great Falls. Jane Weber, director of the Lewis and Clark National Historic Trail Interpretive Center and board member of the National Lewis and Clark Bicentennial Council sent an e-mail to Phil (which he attributes to his diverse background of involvement) suggesting a proposal be submitted to the National Council to host a “signature event” in Great Falls during the bicentennial. Phil mulled the idea over for six months but never responded to that e-mail. He received another e-mail from Jane reiterating the suggestion of a signature event in Great Falls. A brief meeting between Jane and Phil resulted in Phil developing a proposal using Jane’s basic outline of what the National Council wanted.

Phil drew on his Festival Chair experience and historical knowledge to develop a project he named “Discovering the Big Sky.” The project would cover a period of 33 days during June and early July of 2005 corresponding to the dates the expedition was in the Choteau/Cascade County area in 1805. Phil’s knowledge of the local groups made it clear to him that no single organization or group existed to host the signature event. A new entity would need to be established for the express purpose of staging the event then “go away” when it was completed. However, a document needed to be prepared and an acceptable proposal first needed to be submitted to the National Council.

Phil took on the challenge and drafted the proposal. Next an informal steering committee came together to review the proposal and establish the working group that would stage the event, once National Council approval came. Phil invited representatives from various groups he had worked with to put together the Lewis and Clark Festival. The National Council approved Phil’s proposal and the working group established. With its work done, the steering committee dissolved. As the working group came together new events were added to the initial proposal and the name was changed to “Explore the Big Sky.”

Scope and Content:

These files contain the papers Phil accumulated while planning for and participating in the Lewis and Clark Bicentennial from 1999 through 2006. They show his involvement in local, regional and state Lewis and Clark Bicentennial Committees/Commissions as well as his focus on the signature event held in Cascade and Choteau Counties of Montana.
